

CASA Draft Rules

Pre-Draft

- Each Team Captain will be provided the final CASA registration list.
- CASA registration list will identify individual players and players signed up with a 'buddy'.
- Two ranking systems are used; previous season captain rankings and players registration ranking, which includes their preferred positions. These rankings are a guideline and with varying accuracy. However, in the spirit of community, the Board and Team Captain will openly share their knowledge of the players to ensure players are more evenly balanced throughout the league.

Buddy Rule

- Team Captain who join with a buddy will not select the first round as they have one player pre-selected.
- When selecting a player with a buddy this counts as two rounds. For example, if you select buddies round 1, when it snakes back to your turn you will be skipped until the next round.

Draft Process

- Each Team Captain's selection order will be determined by randomly drawing numbers.
- The number drawn will be the placement of that Team Captain for the start of Round 1 of the draft. For example, drawing #4 the Team Captain will be the 4th person to select a player.
- The draft will be a 'snake draft'. This means the Team Captain who selects #1 goes first and the Team Captain selecting #10 will go last but then will go first as the draft goes back the other direction.
- Players who are sponsors will be automatically placed on their sponsor team. This will not count as a 1st choice, but the last choice for that team.

Post-Draft

- Team Captain must not share or reveal final team selection.
- Teams will be announced at the official CASA Draft Party.
